Holiness, has a primary meaning along with a secondary one as well.

The secondary meaning is probably the main definition that we focus on. This deals with personal righteousness, and personal holiness along with a desire to become more like Christ.

"Be ye holy, because I am holy, saith the Lord!"

However, the primary meaning speaks of God's holiness His separateness and otherness that is beyond our comprehension. The word used most often by theologians is apartheid, meaning that our holy God is set above and apart from all things, and everyone!

Rudolf Otto uses a phrase called mysterium tremendum... talking about the awe, along with the terror and finally the grace of such a holy being!

Holy, holy, holy is the Lord God Almighty!

May we acknowledge His majesty before it's everlasting too late!!!
